

Tuesday 2nd March 2021

I can recognise commas in a list

Success Criteria:

I know what commas look like and I know what they are for.

What punctuation marks can you see in the sentence below?

Julian likes dancing, watching television and reading at the weekend.

Introduction

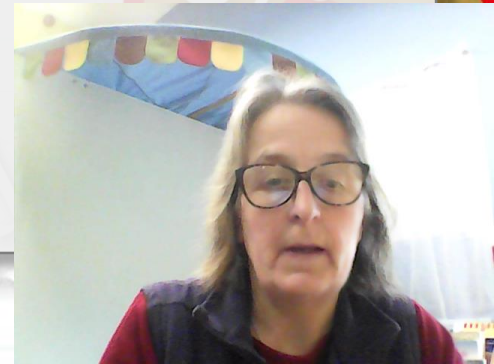

What punctuation marks can you see in the sentence below?

Julian likes dancing, watching television and comma

reading at the weekend.

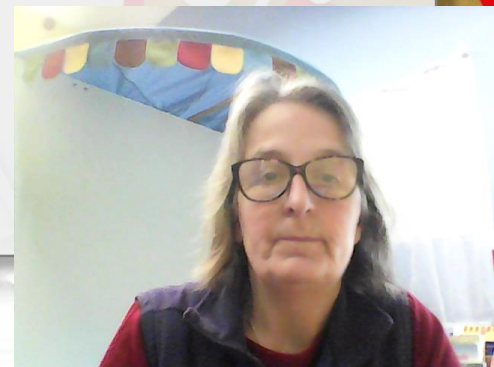

full stop

Varied Fluency 1

Spot the commas in the sentence below.

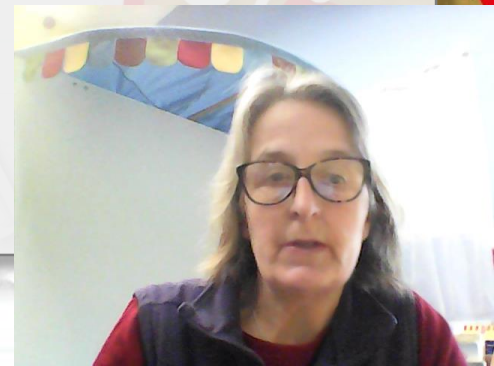

We need flour, eggs, sugar and icing for the cake.

Varied Fluency 1

Spot the commas in the sentence below.

We need flour, eggs, sugar and icing for the cake.

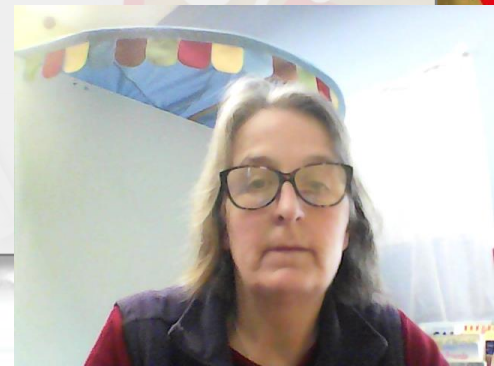

Varied Fluency 2

Which sentence uses commas correctly.

I went to the park with Ellie, Matt, Pete and Frank.

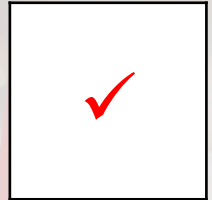

I went to the park with Ellie, Matt, Pete, and Frank.

Varied Fluency 2

Tick the sentence that uses commas correctly.

I went to the park with Ellie, Matt, Pete and Frank.

I went to the park with Ellie, Matt, Pete, and Frank.

No comma is needed between the last two names or after the list.

Varied Fluency 3

Spot the incorrect comma in the sentence below.

Ron had butter, cheese, tomato and ham on his, sandwich.

Ron had butter, cheese, tomato and ham on his , sandwich.

Reasoning 1

Leigh thinks that one of the commas in the sentence below is incorrect.

James had, sweets, popcorn, crisps and a drink at the cinema.

Do you agree? Explain why.

Leigh is correct because there is a comma after 'had' which is not needed as it is not part of the list. The sentence should be James had sweets, popcorn, crisps and a drink at the cinema.

Application 1

Write the the sentence beginning in your book, then use all of the words in the word bank to finish it. Check your sentence makes sense.

plates pots,
and bowls pans,

I washed the...

I washed the pots, pan, plates and bowls.

Or...

I washed the pans, pots, plates and bowls.

